

1 Japanese customs and manners in daily life

It is important for you to have a good understanding of Japanese customs and manners in daily life to live comfortably.

Here is a brief description of general Japanese customs and manners in daily life for your reference.

(1) Japanese greetings

"Ohayogozaimasu" Good morning

"Konnichiwa" Good day

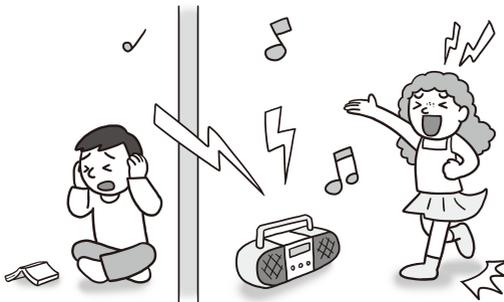

"Konbanwa" Good evening

(2) Daily manners (noise/cooking)

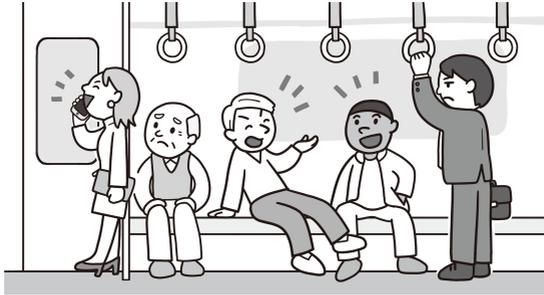

Houses are built in close proximity in Japan's urban areas. The walls of apartment buildings are so thin that noises are transmitted easily. Please be considerate of your neighbors and keep noise levels down.

When you cook particularly strong-smelling dishes, be careful that these smells do not spread to surrounding neighbors.

(3) Using a cellphone in public spaces

Refrain from talking on the phone on buses, trains, or in elevators, and put your cellphone on silent mode or turn it off.

3

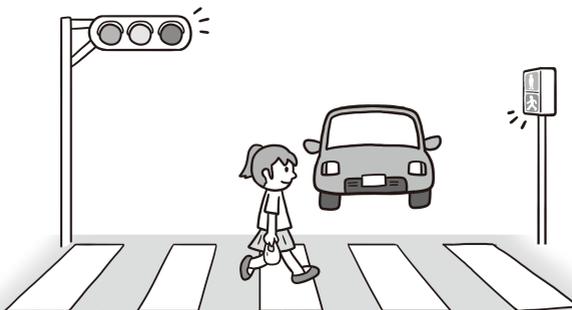

(4) A custom of taking off shoes

Always take off your shoes when entering a house. We sometimes wear indoor slippers, but these must also be removed if you enter a tatami-mat room.

(5) Traffic rules

Please obey traffic signals. Pedestrians walk on the right, and vehicles and bicycles go on the left. Pedestrian safety is given the highest priority on sidewalks.

① Pedestrians

- Walk on a pathway or sidewalk if possible. If not, walk on the right side of the road.
- Stop and check for safety when visibility is low.

② Bicycles

- Keep to the left side of the road when riding. (Riding on the right side is not allowed.)

Times you are allowed to ride on the pathway:

- when there is a road sign saying [Bicycle riding is OK];
 - when you are under 13, 70 years old or over, or have a disability;
 - when there is an inevitable circumstance such as road work.
- It is now mandatory for all cyclists to make an effort to wear a helmet when riding a bicycle. Be sure to wear a helmet when riding.
 - It is prohibited to ride drunk, with another person, with an umbrella or something in your hand, one-handed or side by side. When riding your bicycle, observe all the traffic rules: Turn on the light at night, follow the signal lights, obey stop signs, and perform safety checks.
 - In Tokyo, cyclists are required to carry liability insurance to cover damages caused by accidents. Be sure to take out insurance.
 - Cyclists are required to lock their bicycles to prevent robbery or other criminal behavior. Be sure to register your bicycle and lock it when it is not in use.

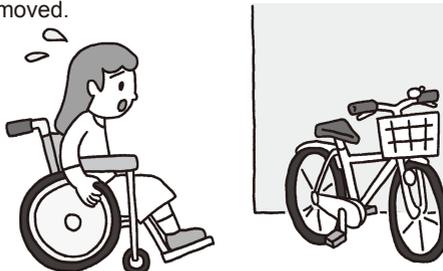

③ Illegally parked bicycles

Illegally parked bicycles on the road may cause accidents or block traffic. They are also a safety hazard in an emergency. Please use a bicycle parking lot.

It is prohibited to park a bicycle in the vicinity of any train or subway station.

Please take notice of the warning signs.

If you illegally park your bicycle or motorbike in such an area, your bicycle or motorbike will be removed.

④ How to get your impounded bicycle back

Impounded bicycles are stored at one of the Impounded Bicycle Storage Centers. The location where your bicycle is stored will depend on the station or address from which it was removed.

- Opening days: Daily except public holidays, substitute holidays, and from December 29 through January 3

(6) Please do not smoke while walking and do not throw cigarette butts on the ground.

In Ota City, you are not allowed to smoke while walking or riding a bicycle, or throw cigarette butts on the street. Smoking while walking or riding a bicycle can cause harm to people as you pass them. In addition, littered cigarette butts will ruin the beauty of the city. Stop littering! Practice good manners and help keep our city clean and beautiful.

(7) Local Town Associations

In most parts of Japan, there are organizations called Local Town Associations within each neighborhood. They are voluntary groups which aim at developing friendly relations among residents through cleaning, disaster and crime prevention activities, and local festivals. Please feel free to join these groups in your area and participate in creating a better local community.

(8) New Year's Day and the Bon Festival

January 1 is New Year's Day. People are usually off work until January 4, and it is the tradition that all family members celebrate the New Year together. This is why shops and hospitals are closed until January 3.

We customarily exchange post New Year cards called Nengajo as part of our New Year celebration.

You can buy these cards at convenience stores, supermarkets, post offices and various other places. We post New Year's cards with New Year's greetings and words of thanks so that they arrive on January 1 to our family, friends, and those people who have been kind to us.

Most people are also off from August 13-15 because of the Bon Festival.

The Festival is a memorial service for ancestors. A tower is built in the center of a park or temple, and people dance around the tower to traditional music. This will provide you with a unique opportunity to interact with residents of your community.
